When art merges with fashion

At the Garden of Five Senses it was yet another night that saw the fusion of fashion and art and brought out a colourful amalgam. If the colours on canvas were courtesy artist Manisha Jha, the fashion part was taken care by designer Ashima Singh. Manisha, who has been offering Madhubani art for quite some time said, "My works which are on display here is a blend of all my collections that I have done in last five years. They explore a variety of topics from the multi-faceted woman to the face of various cities to the duality of being." "I have tried to create my own little repertoire of art prototypes in Madhubani, Kalamkari and Kantha in my clothes," says Ashima.
